Columbia Due Down And Out—Telegraph Failed To Connect—Aragonia In From China—Elder Arrives From Lower Coast—Odds and Ends.

The Lurline left Portland yesterday morning with her racing duds on, thinking she would have the Telegraph at her heels all the way down; as a consequence she tied up at the Flavel dock at 4:25 p. m. and nothing behind her either. Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Megler, were passengers to Brookfield as she went up last evening.

The steamship Columbia is due down from Portland at 4 o'clock this afternoon on her way back to the Golden Gate. This will be the first of daylight-service trips, which will be followed up all the coming season, and one of the delightful phases of the new summer schedule.

The British steamship Irish Monarch came in from San Francisco on Sunday and went direct to the Tongue Point mills dock, where she will load part cargo of the immense lot she is to take across the Pacific to Shanghai the balance being loaded at Portland.

The steamer Telegraph did not get away from Portland yesterday on the Astoria-Portland run, as advertised during the past week. It is said she did not get off the dry-dock in time to make it out, and will enter the run on Monday next.

The ship Berlin cleared at the custom house yesterday, for Nushagak, Alaska, being the first of the Columbia river salmon fleet to clear for the north this season, but the others will follow in a day or two.

The China liner Aragonia entered port yesterday after a good run of 19

Jays from Shanghai and Hong Kong, and went on to the metropolis without any delay here, leaving up after dark.

The steamship Geo. W. Elder arrived in from San Francisco yesterday morning with 72 people in her cabins and after an hour or two spent at the Callender pier, went on to the metropolis.

The steamer Geo. W. Vosburg arrived in from Tillamook Harbor on Sunday last, and will return out today with a bunch of mill men for the Nehalem mills belonging to Wheeler.

On Sunday last the bar tug Tatoosh started for Cape Flattery with the river steamer North West, and the latter will be picked up there and taken on to Vancouver, B. C.

The steamer Alliance came down from Portland yesterday morning and was well heeled for freight and people. She went to sea and Coos Bay before noon.

The steamer Northland was among the get-aways on Sunday at noon, coming down from Kalama, with Captain Betts on the bridge.

The steamer Heather, of the light house service went to sea on Sunday morning early, for a duty cruise along the upper coast.

The schooner Virginia came down on the lines of the Oklahoma yesterday morning and later in the day went to sea and California.

The motor schooner Della went out yesterday evening on her way to the Nestucca, with a full cargo of cannery supplies.

The oil tanker Argyle came down from the metropolis yesterday and went on to sea and the Bay City.

The two master Abbie went to sea and San Francisco with a cargo of lumber on Sunday last.

The steamer Excelstor was among the Sunday get-aways for the Bay City.

AT THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

GOOD ATTENDANCE AND PLENTY OF "POW WOW"—PRACTICAL TALKS FROM HOME AND VISITING PEOPLE.

The second meeting of the Astoria Chamber of Commerce for the month of April transpired last evening at the Bond street rooms, with about forty prominent citizens in attendance. President J. W. Welch, presiding, and James Wallace acting as secretary in the absence of F. N. Clark. Manager J. H. Whyte was also present.

The routine affairs of the chamber received the usual dispatch, and the main features of the session were some very wholesome talks on near and pertinent matters by some of the best talkers present.

Manager Whyte put the chamber in touch with all he had done since his arrival, and outlined some of his best plans for the immediate future, all of which was pleasantly received and endorsed. He is making a thoroughly good impression and is counted to do a lot of genuine good for the cause he represents. His allusion to the pending visit of Mr. Hammond made a good impression and much is looked for when that gentleman shall have come and made known some of his big projects, in which this and adjoining communities have so definite an interest.

Messrs. Folsom and Fields of Boise, Idaho, were at the meeting and each had a good word to say for Astoria while telling of the means and measures employed by their own live city in dealing with the problems of progress. All they said was thoroughly well received and was fully appreciated. They are representative men and seem to have the cult of local boosting down to a scientific and resourceful point.

Several other addresses were made by some of the leading men of the city, and the evening was profitably spent in the interests of Astoria.

The question of changing the habit of the chamber was not broached last night, but it is on the cards for early settlement, as well as the proposition to change the meeting night, to Wednesday or some other free night. The marked improvement in the attendance at the chamber meetings is one of the best signs noted these days.

Mining Mica.

The largest sheets of mica, sometimes reaching a diameter of five feet, are obtained in Siberia. Naturally they are very expensive, the value of this curious mineral varying directly with the size of the sheets into which blocks of it may be split. It is an exceedingly odd form of crystallization, the stuff being originally of volcanic origin, and it is said that plates have been separated out of such masses that were less than one fifty-thousandth of an inch in thickness. One of the queerest uses of mica today is for spectacles worn by stone cutters to protect their eyes. Its most familiar employment probably is in stoves. It is also utilized for reflectors for marine compasses and in a variety of ways in connection with appliances for electric lighting and power production. The substance not only resists a very high heat, but is at the same time proof against corrosive acids. It varies in color from white to green, yellow and black.
